Security observed a fellow female security officer running towards the Main Entrance to the Science & Technology Building. He also observed a male running behind the officer. When the officer entered the vestibule of the Main Entrance, the male subject pushed her into the corner and placed himself behind her with his back to the wall. Security observed the male subject holding a knife in his right hand. Security ran into the lobby of the Galleria and shouted emergency, emergency and advised of the situation. Two other staff members from Security were standing outside the security dispatch office. They ran to the entrance and yelled at the male. The male dropped the knife and ran outside towards the Library parking lot. Security staff ran after the male. They observed the male subject enter a red Saturn bearing Maryland registration. The Saturn backed out of the drop off space and proceeded the wrong way on the roadway in front of the ILB, eventually leaving college property via Little Patuxent Parkway. The security officer stated that the female officer staggered and fell to her knees. He also observed the Saturn leave the college property. He returned to the injured officer. EMT's were providing medical assistance. 911 was notified to dispatch an ambulance and police to the scene. Approximately five minutes later, Howard County Fire and Rescue arrived on the scene followed by Howard County Police. The female officer was assessed by the paramedics, treated and transported to Howard County General. The officer's father was apprised of the situation as well as the District Manager of the Security firm.
