Disorderly Conduct	10/15/2007 1:00pm	Library Building - First Floor	R. Griffin
As reported by an instructor, two students, had been disruptive in the class since the beginning of fall semester. The instructor talked with the one student privately and asked him to sit in the front row separately from his friends. Today the student sat at the back row, so the instructor asked him again to sit in front. He pretended not to hear the instructor. The instructor repeated the request approximately 5 times before he moved to the front desk that was not the one that the instructor had asked the student to sit at. Another student moved with him. When the instructor asked the first student again to move away from his friend to the desk that the instructor showed him so he could focus, the student started talking back at the instructor saying that he paid for this course and can sit where he wants. The instructor asked him if she need to call security to make them sit separately. While the instructor was calling security, the student left the class. When the security guard entered the classroom, the student sat at the appropriate desk and said that he is not going to do that again.

Fall	10/22/2007 4:55pm	Nursing Building - First Floor	P. Davis
At 4:55pm on 10/22/07, an Adjunct faculty member for HCC Health Science Division stumbled and fell outside of N102 striking her right knee on the floor. She stated that the floor was neither wet nor slippery, a fact verified by two security officers. According to the faculty member, the fall was most likely a result of her condition (Multiple Sclerosis). Upon falling, she was helped off the floor by a student and AV employee who did not witness the fall but found the faculty member lying on the ground. An employee who works in the Human Resource office arrived on scene and asked the faculty member if she felt any pain or if she needed medical attention. She stated no and assured those who were present that there was no need for medical attention, because the fall was minor. She stated that the fall was more embarrassing than anything else. The Human Resources employee then guided the faculty member through the process of recording the fall on the HCC faculty incident report sheet. The faculty member reiterated that this sort of thing happens all the time because of MS. In an effort to avoid any potential stress to the knee, Security escorted the faculty member to her car via wheelchair.
