Theft	10/17/2008 1:00pm	Bookstore	R. Sims

Summary

Bookstore staff reported a possible theft (books were taken from the bookstore which the staff stated he was not able to get clear view on the camera. However the staff member heard the sensor alarm as the suspect exited the bookstore. Staff reported the books were worth at $1,000.00. It is believed the books were carried out in the suspect's book bag and it is also believed that someone else was a lookout. No description on the other alleged person was given.

Description of suspect:

White male approx. 6'0 220-240lbs, wearing a yellow baseball cap with white T-shirt carrying a book bag

Items taken:

- Law for Business $186.67
- Pre calculus $156.00 4 books were taken
- Law of Business 10 E – 1 book

A video of the incident has been obtained. Security is working to see if they could make possible I.D.

The video tape shows the w/m with the yellow hat kneel down in the isle and remove 4 books from the display shelf and place them in his back pack. The suspect put the pack on his back and continued to walk about the store picking up other books. The second suspect was seen the entire time walking about the area as the theft was occurring making eye contact with the suspect.

Both suspects left the bookstore without making an attempt to pay for the items. Surveillance video prior to the theft, showed both suspects together outside the building containing the bookstore.

On 10/23/08, the Director of Security was discussing this theft with the Assistant Security Director for the College of Notre Dame. He advised that he had arrested individuals recently for similar offense from the bookstore at the College of Notre Dame. He had sent out a previous flier to local colleges advising that suspects would enter the bookstore and one suspect would fill an empty back pack while another suspect would act as a "Look Out".

This is similar to the theft from Howard Community College.

On 10/24/08 the HCC Director of Security received photographs of suspects from the Assistant Security Director for the College of Notre Dame. The photo of the one individual matched that of the suspect wearing the yellow hat and a photo of the second individual matched that of the tall skinny suspect with blonde hair.

On 10/27/08, the Assistant Security Director for the College of Notre Dame, reviewed the video tape from the HCC bookstore and positively identified both suspects from past personal contact.

Director Of Security of the College Of Notre Dame also reviewed the tape positively identifying the suspects. He also identified the one as the person that struck him in the face with his elbow in an attempt to flee. Howard County Police Officer responded to take the report of theft from the HCC Bookstore. The Officer will complete the paperwork for arrest warrants.
